1. Concept of Open University

An open learning system is one in which the onus of learning is primarily on the students. Despite this, they are formally enrolled in a system which takes in other learners too. Thus, we draw a line of distinction between the above-mentioned category of students and (a) those borrowing books from Libraries and (b) those formally attached to a conventional university where classroom teaching is the principal mode of instruction.

The Open University represents an alternative approach to higher learning. It stands apart from a highly formal, institutionalized and centrally administered system of education. Its philosophy is built around the principles of universality, flexibility and innovativeness. Its ideas and institutions, its methods and procedures are all shaped accordingly. Conceptually, it can be viewed as a system drawing upon the best elements in formal and non-formal education.

The 'openness' consists of a variety of features. First, it offers easy access to the learners. The entry requirement is not too exacting. A genuine interest in picking up knowledge is all that it expects. Consequently, it would try to embrace as many learners as possible.

Second, its territorial reach is visibly wide. It aims at bringing education to the doorstep of the learner, wherever he or she may be. Various methods of communication and contact are used for this purpose. The classroom of the university, thus, is as wide as the entire land it seeks to serve.

Third, the Open University is learner-oriented. It devises its course and methods of teaching to suit the needs of the learners. Their options and inclinations are given due priorities. A variety of courses – short-term or long-term, liberal or professional – can be pursued under the university.

Fourth, it believes in fair distribution of quality education, teaching aid, consultancy and study materials. Whatever resources the university has are made evenly available to all learners wherever or whoever he or she might be. It eliminates variations and discrimination.

Fifth, its administration is decentralized. In promoting Distance Education, the university creates a wide network of Study Centres. Students need only to come to the nearest available centre for collecting all information, completing all formalities, discussing their academic issues and appearing for evaluation of their work at intervals chosen by them.

Sixth, student assessment under Open University is based on continuous assessment and credit system. It does not require students to get bogged down in one final examination. One can study at one's own pace.

In short, the Open University seeks to open up the treasure house of knowledge to the maximum number of users. Thereby it would enhance their skills for productivity and further learning. Socially, too, the university promises steady empowerment of those who suffered backwardness for want of these skills. Considering the current trends all over the world, the Open University is going not only to complement the conventional system of higher education but may soon occupy the centre stage also in developing countries where the resources do not measure up to the vastness of the clientele.

2. Vision and Mission of Netaji Subhas Open University

7.14. Diploma in Safety Skills & Security Management

With economy of India growing like never before and many multinational companies bringing money, establishing their offices, business houses, enterprises and industry in India, there is need to provide good, stable and secure social environment. To address their safety concerns and requirements is the need of the hour. Police looks after the law and order situation in civil life in general. But with increasing demands for specialized security personnel in industry, business undertakings as well as at private level, there is a need of an established system for providing training to the unemployed youth, grooming them to take up jobs in security sector. Such trained youth can fill in the void that is present in our system earning their livelihood respectably and also playing a constructive role in society. This will also help in improving the workings and standards of the security agencies hiring such trainees.

The need for giving emphasis on the Skills Development, especially for the less educated, poor and out of school youth has been highlighted in various forums. The skill level and educational attainment of the work force determines the productivity, income levels as well as the adaptability of the working class in changing environment. Large percentage of population in India is living below poverty line. One of the important causes is lower percentage of skilled persons in the workforce.

Methodology

The training methods to be used should be appropriate to the development of competencies. The focus of the programme is on “performing” and not on “Knowing”. Lecturing will be restricted to the minimum necessary and emphasis to be given for “hands on training”. The training methods will be individual centered to make each person a competent one. Opportunities for individual work will be provided. The learning process will be continuously monitored and feedback will be provided on individual basis.

Demonstrations using different models, audio visual aids and equipment will be used intensively.

7.15. Diploma in Entrepreneurship Development & Small Business Management (DEDSBM)

Modern ideas of entrepreneurship and management have greatly transformed the earlier concept of entrepreneurship wherein family ties and inborn qualities are the hallmarks of the profession. Instead of being equipped as a job seeker, the course will equip a successful trainee to become a job-provider-an entrepreneur and a manager in his/her own right. A successful entrepreneur should make time-bound plans to implement the project, find ways and means to generate is/her resources and learn from other's success and failures as to what he/she should endeavour to do. His/her goal to achieve success must be well defined.

8. Student Support Services

The university provides its students with self Instructional Materials (SIM) to be studied and learnt by them at their convenience. The university provides various student-support services through a network of study centres. These centres cover all the districts of the State and are located at convenient points connected by public transport. A study centre is placed under the supervision of a coordinator assisted by the staff of his office. It provides all information including prospectus and application forms for enrolment.

At the beginning of each session, study centres invite the students for an induction meeting where they are familiarized with the aims, objectives and activities of the university and the methodology of distance education.

The study centres draw schedules of counselling sessions and notify the same for the students. Normally, the counselling sessions are held during weekends and periods of vacation of the host institutions.

Study centres distribute the home assignment papers received from the university and arrange for their evaluation.

Prospectus, Information, Assignments etc. are not issued by the Headquarters. Students should contact the study centres for all their requirements.

The study centres (not home centres) also arrange for holding of examinations in accordance with the schedule fixed by the university from time to time.

In short, each study centre acts as the day-to-day link between the students and the university. Students are expected to conduct themselves in a worthy and dignified manner to maintain high academic and moral standards.
