Background:

As educational institutions progressively embrace digital technology as an integral part of their curricula, the necessity for robust capacity-building programmes is crucial in bridging this gap and empowering educators. With pedagogy, technology, and curriculum design constantly evolving, teaching-learning has become a dynamic system both from delivery and recipient ends in the 21st century. To remain relevant in the education ecosystem, educators must pursue professional development programmes. Building capacity becomes essential for several reasons viz., technological advances & Pedagogical innovations.

With this backdrop, the Center for Lifelong Learning is organizing one-day workshop on 'Building Digital Confidence'.

The objectives of this workshop :

- To equip educators with essential ICT skills to enhance their teaching practices.
- To empower educators to integrate technology effectively into their classrooms.
- To foster a positive attitude towards technology and its potential in education.
